

Du verwendest das Modalverb must, um eine Notwendigkeit oder Verpflichtung auszudrücken. Du bildest must in Zusammenhang mit einem anderen Verb im Infinitiv ohne to. Mit dem Modalverb need hast du eine weitere Möglichkeit eine Notwendigkeit auszudrücken.

Beispiel: Sarah must clean her room. → Jenny muss ihr Zimmer sauber machen.

Mustn't hingegen verwendest du um ein Verbot auszudrücken, also etwas was man nicht darf.

Beispiel: You mustn't break into a house. → Du darfst nicht in ein Haus einbrechen.

Needn't verwendest du um auszudrücken, dass man etwas nicht braucht oder nicht tun muss.

Beispiel: You needn't go to school today. → Du brauchst heute nicht zur Schule zu gehen.

I must talk to Sarah.
You must be at home at 7 p.m.
He must go into the city to buy new clothes.
They must be on the train station at 4 o'clock.

I mustn't go out today, because I'm ill.
We mustn't watch a movie after 12 a.m.
You mustn't go outside today. A storm is coming.

Must I go to school today?

Must I buy some drinks?

Tom must call Sarah.

No, you needn't go to school today.

You needn't buy drinks. I've got some.

I needn't talk to Sarah anymore.
